Career advice that students actually finish reading

This series turns everyday career questions into quick, friendly Instagram posts for students, fresh graduates and early career professionals. Each post answers one question, such as how to apply well, which soft skills matter, or how to handle a difficult boss.

I designed the full visual system and produced 18 posts in two colour directions. Content and copy came from the client, so my focus was on layout, hierarchy, consistency and making dense advice easy to scan on a phone.

Lots of advice, very little screen space

Career tips come as lists. A post may need to carry four or five full sentences, a headline, a context label and a human face, all inside one square on a small phone screen.

If the text is too small the post gets skipped, and if it is too sparse the advice feels empty. The goal was a layout that holds a real list while staying calm, friendly and easy to read in a few seconds.

1

Be scannable

A big headline and a short yellow label tell people the topic in a glance.

2

Hold real content

Checklist cards carry four or five points without crowding the portrait.

3

Feel human

A friendly face with a clear gesture makes advice feel like a conversation.

4

Stay consistent

One structure repeats across topics so the feed reads as a series.

Talking like a helpful older friend

Students and fresh graduates

Posts on part time work, CV mistakes and what to do before applying.

Active job seekers

Interview tips, how to apply well and the signs of a caring company.

Early career employees

Office politics, difficult bosses and habits to avoid at work.

Tone of voice: Casual Bahasa such as Yuk atasi dengan ini and Pengen cepat dipanggil interview keeps the posts warm and direct, while a clean office setting keeps the advice professional.

A bright office, a friendly guide, a clear list

One guide per post

A single professional cutout points, smiles or gives a thumbs up. The gesture points at the list and tells people what the post is about.

Frosted cards for content

Each tip sits in its own rounded card with a check badge, so a list of five points still feels light and easy to follow.

A calm blurred office

A pale, softly blurred workplace sets the career theme without competing with the text.

Three topics, one structure.

Headline on top, yellow label below, tips in cards and a portrait or icon set that balances the layout.

Aqua glass and royal blue

Direction A: Aqua glass

Teal headlines with a white outline, glossy frosted cards and soft sparkle accents. Fresh and friendly.

Direction B: Royal blue

Flat navy headlines, crisp white cards and bold yellow checks. Confident and trustworthy.

Navy

Type and building blocks

HIERARCHY AT A GLANCE

Headline

Heavy rounded display type. Aqua version adds a white outline and soft shadow, blue version stays flat navy.

YELLOW LABEL

A short context line that finishes the headline, in capitals so it reads as a tag.

✓ Tip card with a check badge

Short sentences in sentence case, with the key point on the first line.

Check badge

A circular tick marks each tip. Teal in direction A, yellow with a navy tick in direction B.

Icon circles

Six outlined icons turn abstract soft skills into a quick visual set.

Notebook flat lay

A handwritten page works for quotes and for the points that go inside a CV.

How one post is built

Six kinds of career content

Soft skills

Six core skills shown as an icon set, from communication to time management.

Job hunting

How to apply, how to get interviews and what to prepare before applying.

Workplace behaviour

Office politics, caring companies and habits that annoy coworkers.

Self development

Courses, positive habits and finding a mentor or role model.

Students and graduates

Part time work benefits and what fresh graduates should do first.

Motivation

A handwritten note on a notebook that closes a carousel with encouragement.

The Soft Skill carousel cover

The first slide of a four slide carousel. It has to stop the scroll and promise a clear payoff in one look.

OK Skills orbit the portrait

Six check cards sit around a smiling guide, so the cover itself already shows the content.

OK Counter and dots

The 1/4 tag and carousel dots in the mockup tell viewers there is more to swipe.

OK Readable in context

Placing the design inside a real Instagram frame confirms the headline holds up on a small screen.

One list pattern, four layouts

● Portrait left

● Portrait right

Flipping the sides gives the grid rhythm between posts.

● Cards around the face

Four short benefits can orbit a centred portrait.

● Grid of cards

Six points can sit in a tidy block under the headline.

Expressions that carry the message

● Pleading hands

Used on bosses and caring companies, where the topic is emotional.

● Pointing

Warns about office politics and sends the eye to the list.

● Thumbs up

Signals positive advice such as the benefits of part time work.

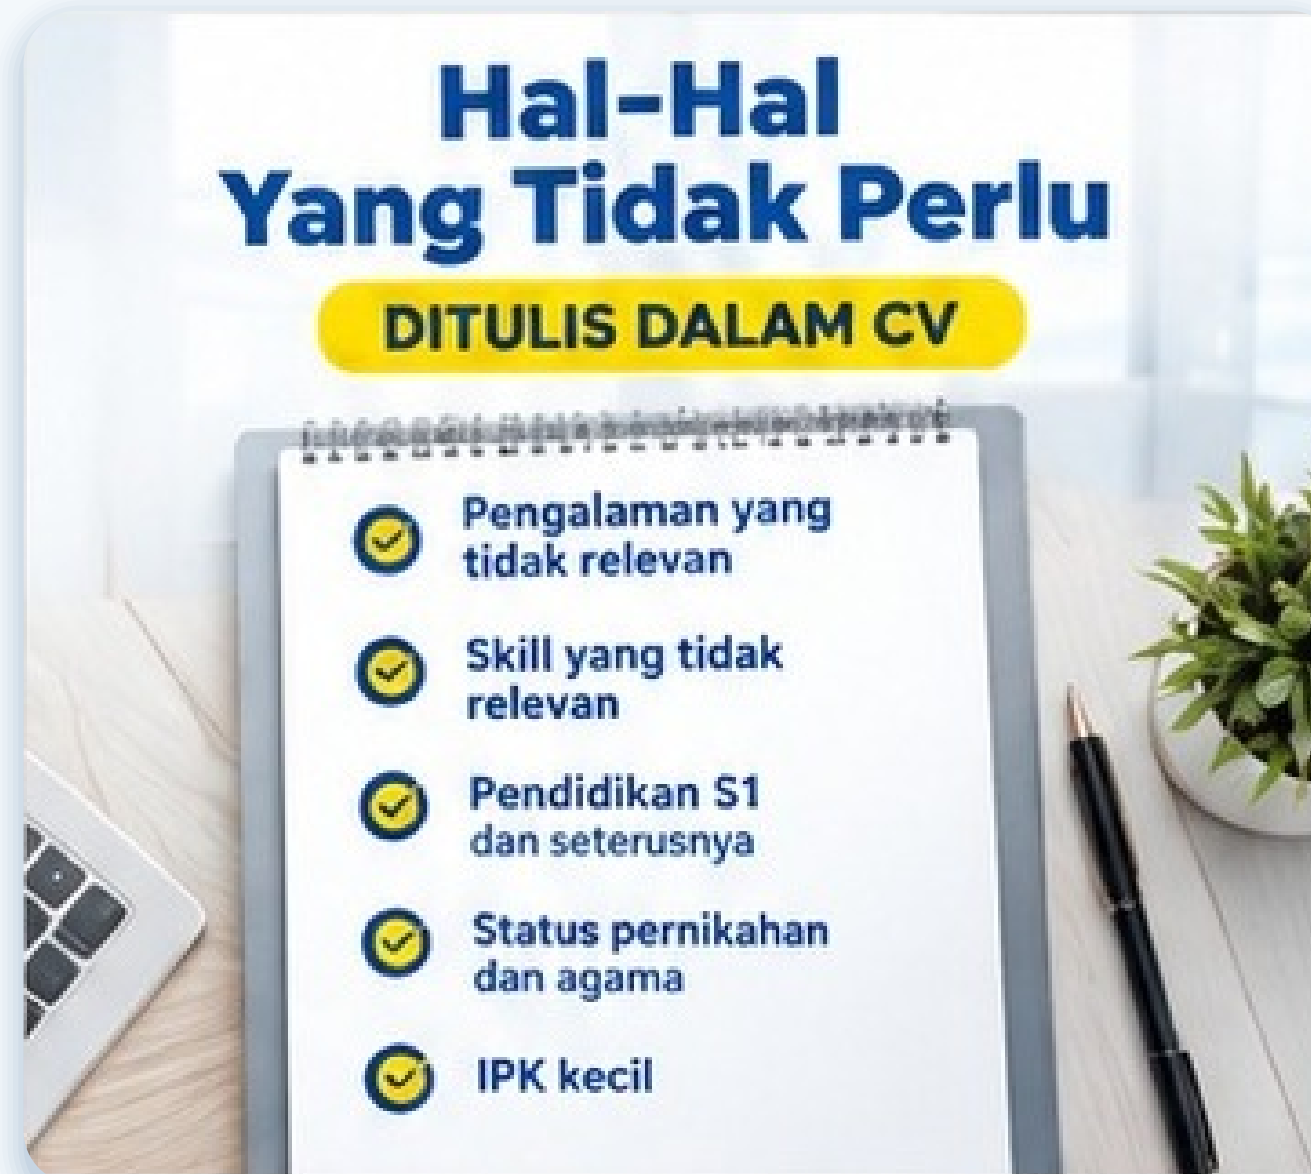

The same model appears across the series, so expression and gesture do the storytelling.

Flat lay posts and icon sets

Handwritten note

A closing quote on a notebook ends a carousel on a personal, encouraging note.

Points on paper

The CV post writes its warnings on a page, which fits the topic of documents.

Icon circles

Six outlined icons with labels make soft skills easy to remember.

The same topics in both directions

Twelve posts, one series

Portraits, notebook flat lays and icon sets alternate across the grid. The mix keeps the feed lively, while the navy and yellow system makes every post feel like part of one series.

OK Rhythm of density

Calm photo posts sit next to list heavy ones so the eye can rest.

OK Repeated anchors

Headline, yellow label and tip cards return in every row.

OK Colour discipline

Navy and yellow stay the only strong colours, so the grid stays clean.

From raw tips to finished posts

01

Content intake

Review the client topics, tip lists and the order of slides for each carousel.

02

Direction

Explore the aqua glass look and the royal blue look with the same layout.

03

Master layouts

Build list, icon set and flat lay templates with clear text sizes.

04

Production

Place cutouts and backgrounds, set the tips and align every card.

05

Review and handoff

Test legibility in an Instagram mockup, then export feed ready files.

What this project shows

01

Structure makes dense content light

A headline, a label and tip cards let a post hold five points and still feel easy.

02

A friendly face builds trust

A consistent guide with clear gestures makes career advice feel personal and approachable.

03

One system, two moods

The same layouts work in aqua glass or royal blue, so the series can change tone without a rebuild.
